Casting Light On Black Sheep.

Discreet and effective investigations are necessary in cases of suspicion of criminal activity against your company's interests. These will only succeed in confidential and mutual cooperation with your employees because security starts in the head of each one of them. Prevent's aim is to provide you with timely and precise information enabling you to assess the situation accurately and to make balanced decisions, even under difficult general conditions.

Structured white-collar crime is characterized by a high degree of complexity and a plurality of individual pieces of information whose connection is not visible at first glance. Up to now, high capacity software and analysis tools specially designed for forensic analysis have only been accessible to certain law enforcement agencies.

Prevent possesses these tools which meet the highest demands, process huge volumes of data quickly and simultaneously allow maximum amount of flexibility in analysis. Only so is it possible to detect, assess and process complex cases of white-collar crime and to successfully combat them.
